Dorney Park's Halloween Haunt, is a very popular attraction during the month of October, so I decided that I was going to see what the everyone loved about it so much. I participated in everything there, from Club Blood to Corn Stalkers. Let me tell you about the inside mazes; they are all different and unique. First, there is the asylum; it's like you checked right into your very own mental institution, and they even have straight jackets for some of the more crazy guests. Next, is Club Blood; this is the perfect club if you like, vampire dancers, vampires in coffins, and just plain vampires. Clowns, clowns, when you enter the psycho circus in 3-D, too; hey, who doesn't like killer clowns. During the day this entire affair is just some kiddy attraction, but at night it turns into the Magical House on Kill Hill, Just watch out for the polka dot men with chainsaws. Now, let's explore the outdoor maze. Who ever thought camping in the woods could be so much fun. In the back woods mazes, the best part is there are more chainsaws than woods. Now, to travel back in time to the old west I had to visit Terror Square. Now to move forward in time I had to go to the Gauntlet and I got to see the knights of the dead table. In the pirate passage I lost all my treasure in there. Headstone Hollow is not your average graveyard. This one has zombies, more zombies, and zombies with chainsaws. Now this maze is a death trap you have to make sure you don't set off the trap because that could be the last move you ever make. Do you feel like you're being stalked by someone or something. Then you must be in corn stalkers and guess what more chainsaws is in it. Are you hot? Well then you must be watching Inferno. This show is really burning up the stage with their fire tricks. When I was there I ran into my buddy Mike. He works there, so I decided to get an insider view on the job there. Do you enjoy working at Dorney? "Yes I do, because since I work in the waterpark all summer, I enjoy doing something new and getting to scare people." What would you do if Dorney changed the rules and didn't let waterpark workers work at the Haunt? "I would be sad because this is one of the best parts about my job."

mazezilla mayhem

Mazezilla is a fall fascination here in the Slate Belt. If you didn't know, Mazezilla is a cornfield maze that has a different theme every year. This year, the theme is "Lost in Space". It's a family attraction that you can either experience during the day, or at night. Kaitlyn Nasatka, a sophomore, went to Mazezilla and her favorite thing about it was getting lost. "Definitely bring a flashlight, wear sneakers, and dress warm." is her advice to those who take the maze challenge. Krissy

Stauffer, a junior, says, "It's fun, easy to get lost in, and going with a group of friends makes it so much better." Klingel's Farm Stand is also located within Mazezilla, selling fresh fruits and vegetables of the season. If mazes just aren't your thing, make sure to stop by the pumpkin patch!

You can pick your own pumpkins, and for the kids, there is a petting zoo filled with farm animals. So whether you go for the maze, Klingel's Farm Stand, or the pumpkin patch, all three are a very fun

You know after Thanksgiving you have all those leftovers that take you weeks to devour?

Then you get tired of having the same lunch and dinner over and over again? Then you get in trouble because you keep complaining of having the same stuff and your mom or spouse will not make anything new because theirs Thanksgiving left overs in the refrigerator. If that's the case you can make a mouth watering finger licking good turkey casserole with the over loading leftovers you have in your fridge. In order to make the casserole you're going to need the dish (any size) to put the food in.

Then you're going to layer all the leftovers, you don't have to preheat.

- 1) Turkey, remove skin from turkey, take away fat, and pull the meat from the bone, the meat should look shredded after you take it off the bone.
 - 2) Then you're going to put the mash potatoes evenly in the dish.
 - 3) Next you're going to spread the stuffing evenly throughout the dish
 - 4) Put cranberry sauce slices throughout the casserole.(optional)
 - 5) Put the green bean on casserole.
 - 6) Spread bread crumbs throughout the top.
 - 7) Top it with fried onions.
- Instructions:
- 1) Preheat oven to 325°F
 - 2) Let it cook for about 30-45 minutes or until bread crumbs turn brown.

dress code policy

by Ben Miller

"All students attending Pen Argyl Area High School are expected to be neat, clean, fully-clothed, and well-groomed at all times." Sound familiar? For all you good students out there, (and I'm referring to all the students at PAAHS), this should look familiar to you from page 63 of your handy-dandy student hand book. The dress code at the high school is strictly monitored by the teachers and administrators at you walk the halls of our alma mater. In particular, the most common section of the dress code broken can be found on page 64, "All clothing should be clean, neat, in good repair (no holes above the knee) and in good taste." The problem is basically people are wearing jeans that have holes in them above the knee, both boys and girls. This also includes all "runs" in jeans. Also holes that have thread spanning the length of the hole are not permitted. Finally, no patches should be worn over these holes. The basic rule is if in doubt, just don't wear it to school. It is not worth being reprimanded for, and then being required for your parents to bring a more suitable type of clothing. Chances are, they will not be too happy about having to do that.

B. Miller, Echo

This policy has become quite an issue with students and faculty. For some students such as senior Ryan Hutchinson it is not a problem. "It's not an issue because I already follow all the rules of our dress code." However there are other points of view such as sophomore Caitlin Waring. "I think it's absolutely ridiculous. I mean, if it's a large hole, that shouldn't be acceptable, but not being able to have a patch above the knee is just...preposterous." I could go on forever with student and staff approval and disapproval. All in all, just abide by the rules and there will not be a problem. If in doubt, don't wear it to school!
